Anyone who has known me for very long knows that I am on the eternal quest for the perfect PDA, or Personal Data Assistant. I have tried Palm OS-based devices, from the Palm III to the Sony Clie line (I loved the UX50!). I have also dabbled in the Windows CE and Pocket PC, having used Ipaqs, Jornadas and Casseopias, among others. But what I have learned from these experiences is that the devices themselves are nice, but the accesories available for them can have a big impact on their usefulness as well. Foremost among these is a good case. I mean, you spend hundreds of dollars on one, you would like to protect it as much as possilbe. Thus we arrive at the subject of today's Family First site.

The site we look at today is for Sena Cases, one of the best all around PDA case makers that I have found. They have managed to find that niche where they turn out a quality product, for a price that would send you away with your head shaking. They feature cases for just about every current model of PDA (and some older ones as well). They are available in a variety of colors and designs, and you can get both belt clip versions and non-belt clip ones. They are also starting to feature cases for the Apple and HP Ipod MP3 players. They have just released a series of new models for the new HP Ipaq series, and are currently developing a series of cases for new Blueberry models.

So if you are looking for a quality PDA case, you have my highest recommendation for the Sena cases. I have used several of them, and have been nothing but satisfied.
