

Sena Dockable Case for iPhone

Published by Michael Johnston on September 30, 2007 - 2:00pm. Reviews

Sena's Dockable Case for iPhone is a wonderfully crafted leather case. Its professional look and functionality make it one of the more unique cases available. Because of the case's ability to fit into the iPhone's dock, it's one of my favorites.

The Dockable Case is made from a European Napa leather and comes in a variety of designs. Its interior is lined in velvet. Attached at the top is a protective leather flap which keeps itself closed using two magnets at the case's bottom and features a storage pocket. On the back is a detachable belt clip. All ports, sensors, and buttons are accessible with the case in place via well placed openings.

www.macsales.com
OWC
Mercury Elite - AL
Storage Solutions
FireWire 800/400
USB 2.0
eSATA
ads

When it comes to leather cases, this is one of the more functional ones that I've seen. The protective flap keeps your iPhone looking pretty and is easily peeled away due to its magnetic grip. All of the ports and controls are open and available with the case on. Headphones can be plugged in while the flap is closed. The volume and ring/silent switch, although difficult to use by feel, can be used with the case closed as well. Obviously, the greatest advantage to this case is its ability to remain on and still be dockable. Nearly all other cases require that you either use the docking cable or remove the iPhone from its case.

This case has some great features, but there are a few things that just don't work for me. On the top of my list is the protective flap. It does provide a good level of protection, but it gets in the way when on a phone call or taking a photo. There is an opening for the camera, but it doesn't really work because the flap gets in the way. To use the camera, the flap needs to be held perpendicular to your body. Possibly harmful to the phone itself, the belt clip and the magnets which hold the flap down tend to put a lot of pressure on the phone in their respective places.

The Dockable Case is unique because of its ability to sit in the iPhone dock without having to be removed. The belt clip and access to all ports and controls ensure your iPhone will remain safe and useful while using it. The flap is awkward and gets in the way of your iPhone's camera, but the dockability is a feature most cases do not have. Shortcomings and irritations aside, I feel that this case would be great for anyone looking for a functional and stylish leather case.

The Sena Dockable Case For iPhone is available for $52 from Senacases.com