

Men's Health

THE STYLE SQUAD

« Ryan Reynolds Rap | Main | Oscar Redux »

Hold 'Em

We like to use science and statistics in our style coverage at Men's Health. We recently asked women what they didn't like about the way guys dress. One of the answers – not surprising, honestly – was that they hate it when we wear our mobile phones and PDAs clipped to our belt. “Put them in a bag,” they insisted.

But keeping everything together in one place – a bag, a backpack, a briefcase, your choice – doesn't fully address the issue. The thought of my Ipod scratching against my Blackberry inside my gym-slash-work bag, well, it's too much.

Sena Cases makes smart leather device cases for pretty much every kind of Blackberry, Ipod and cell phone. Their video Ipod cases have a flip stand so the device will sit up by itself. Loads of colors, and a style to fit practically anything that women are begging you not to attach to your belt. Prices are in the $30-$40 range. -BB

February 20, 2007 | Permalink

Sena article text version

Hold 'Em

We like to use science and statistics in our style coverage at Men's Health. We recently asked women what they didn't like about the way guys dress. One of the answers – not surprising, honestly – was that they hate it when we wear our mobile phones and PDAs clipped to our belt. “Put them in a bag,” they insisted.

But keeping everything together in one place – a bag, a backpack, a briefcase, your choice – doesn't fully address the issue. The thought of my Ipod scratching against my Blackberry inside my gym-slash-work bag, well, it's too much.

Sena Cases makes smart leather device cases for pretty much every kind of Blackberry, Ipod and cell phone. Their video Ipod cases have a flip stand so the device will sit up by itself. Loads of colors, and a style to fit practically anything that women are begging you not to attach to your belt. Prices are in the $30-$40 range. -BB